Background

Matthew has been a practicing solicitor in Queensland since 2010. For the first decade of practice Matthew practiced in civil litigation, specifically personal injury litigation, where he regularly represented parties, often catastrophically injured, in settlement conferences and mediations.

In 2020 Matthew transferred his skills into the field of energy and agriculture within a multi-practice law firm, where he represents parties in the negotiation of mineral and gas compensation agreements, renewable energy licences and leases, land resumption compensation claims, and general property transactions.

In 2022 Matthew became an NMAS accredited mediator. Matthew has assisted CQUniversity with its legal and dispute resolution curriculum, holds positions on the mediation panels of the Rockhampton Dispute Resolution Centre and QRIDA's Farm Debt Mediation Service, and assists on multiple dispute resolution committees.
