Background

Craig Jones is a nationally accredited mediator with advanced standing. Craig's experience with respect to land matters includes landowner and resources sector negotiations and disputes; environmental disputes; heritage matters; native title matters including future acts and facilitation of public meetings.

Additionally, Craig has expertise in the manage of political sensitive disputes and effective crisis management. Craig has worked of "both sides of the fence" as a leader in the resources sector and as a representative of landowners, communities and Indigenous peoples.

Craig uses a design approach to the management of disputes and negotiations rather than the rigid application of mediation steps. This is a response to the fact that most disputes are complex rather than difficult and thus are not susceptible to the application of a rigid "best practice" approach.

Craig seeks to assist parties to achieve mutually beneficial outcomes in a timely and resource efficient manner.

Craig is a director of RREDD Pty Ltd – see <https://rredd.com.au>
