

In this tutorial:

- Searching the Benchbook
- Filtering the Table of Contents

1. The search bar is in the top header. Enter any term and press 'enter' to search across the entire Benchbook.

For example, searching for 'Zaburoni' yields the following results:

Click any search result to view it in context.

2. The search function can also be used for complex queries, using Boolean operators such as 'and', 'or', brackets, and quote marks.

For example, searching:

‘(“intention” or “knowledge”) and (“conspiracy” or “stealing”)’

will find locations where one or both of ‘intention’ or ‘knowledge’ occurs nearby one or both of ‘conspiracy’ or ‘stealing’.

2

SEARCH

("intention" or "knowledge") and ("conspiracy" or "stealing")

Q

Showing page 1 of 1

[1] 3.3 Alternative Charges

similar nature Section 588A – Charges of stealing certain animals and of killing certain animals with intent to steal Section 589 – Indictment for joint receiving Section 589A – Indictment for using or disclosing knowledge of match

[2] 12.2 Child Stealing: s 363

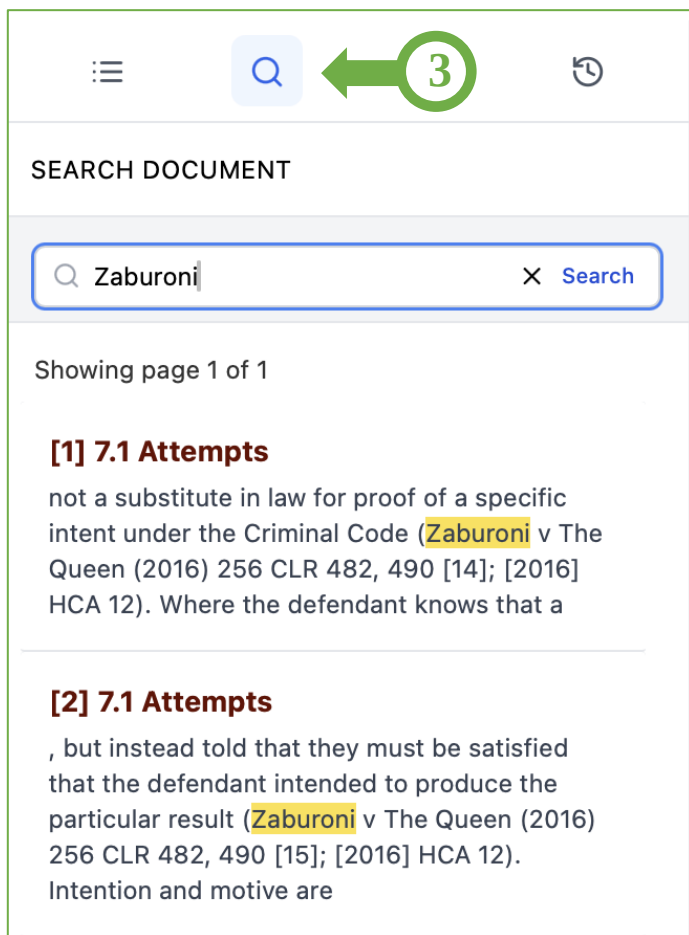

; R v Timmins (1860) Bell CC 276). If the intent in question is to steal any article upon or about the person of the

[3] 18.2 Conspiracy—Commonwealth Criminal Code

a commercial quantity. Therefore, in considering this element of intention in the context of a conspiracy to import a commercial quantity of a border

3. The search bar can also be accessed through the left-hand panel that normally contains the Table of Contents. Click the eyeglass icon at the top of the panel.

This has the advantage of keeping the full search results visible while browsing them in-context.

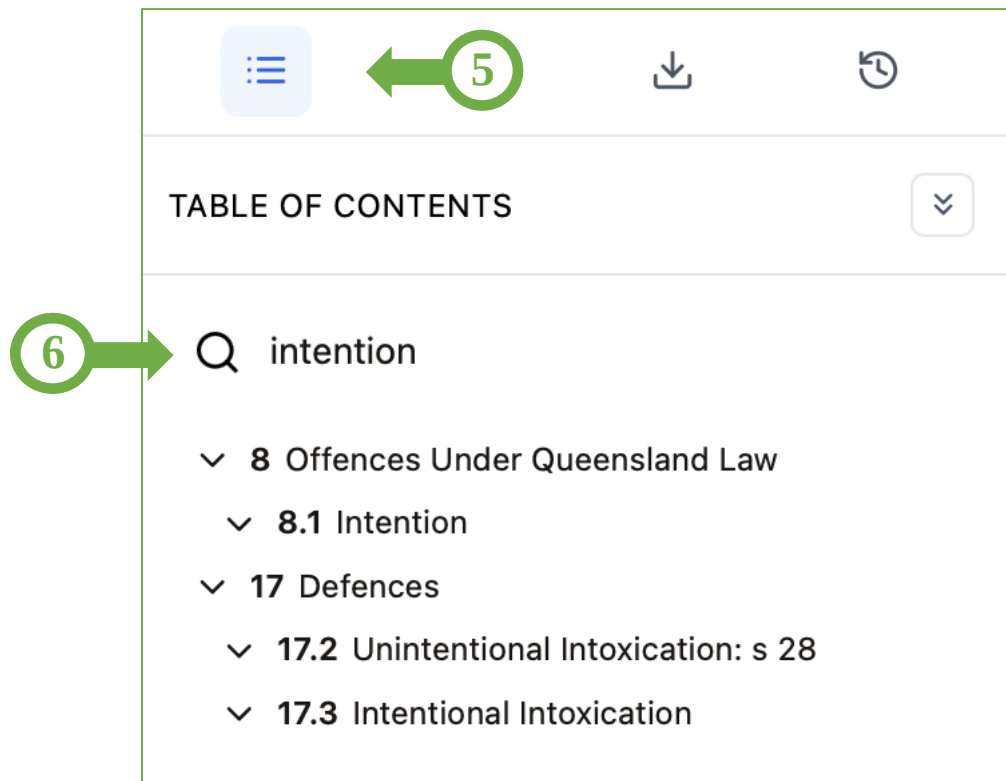

4. Upon clicking a search result, the search terms from that result will be highlighted in the context of the rest of that chapter. Note that search terms will only be highlighted if Document View is used. If in PDF View, the search terms will not be highlighted.

4

Where, as here, proof of intention to produce a result is an element of the offence, the prosecution must prove the defendant meant to produce that result by his or her conduct (Zaburoni v The Queen (2016) 256 CLR 482, 490 [14]; [2016] HCA 12, [14]).

5. Another way to search the Benchbook is to filter the Table of Contents. Start by selecting the Table of Contents icon in the left-hand panel.

6. Next, select the 'Filter contents...' search bar, next to the eyeglass icon. This allows you to search only the Benchbook headings for a particular term, such as the word 'intention' in the above example.